A Sample of What a Fairly Healthy Cockatoo Can Do.

A light chain securely fastened on the cockatoo's leg promised safety, but he contrived to get within reach of my new curtains and rapidly devoured some half yard or so of a hand painted border, which was the pride of my heart. Then came an interval of calm and exemplary behavior which lulled me into a false security. Cockie seemed to have but one object in life, which was to pull out all his own feathers, and by evening the dining room often looked as though a white fowl had been plucked in it.

I consulted a bird doctor, but as Cockie's health was perfectly good and his diet all that could be recommended, it was supposed he only plucked himself for want of occupation, and firewood was recommended as a substitute. This answered very well, and he spent his leisure in gnawing sticks of deal—only when no one chanced to be in the room he used to unfasten the swivel of his chain, leave it dangling on the stand and descend in search of his playthings. When the fire had not been lighted, I often found half the coals pulled out of the grate and the firewood in splinters. At last, with warmer weather, both coals and wood were removed, so the next time Master Cockie found himself short of a job he set to work on the dining room chairs, first pulled out all their bright nails and next tore holes in the leather, through which he triumphantly dragged the stuffing.

At one time he went on a visit for some weeks and ate up everything within his reach in that friendly establishment. His "bag" for one afternoon consisted of a venerable fern and a large palm, some library books, newspapers, a pack of cards and an armchair. And yet every one adores him, and he is the spoiled child of more than one family.—Cornhill.

Would Not Leave It to Go For Money That Belonged to Him.

"I won't go out! I won't leave here for anything!"
 Such was the amazing declaration of a pauper attendant in an east end London workhouse on being told by an agent that he was entitled to some money. And the man—the son of a post captain in the navy—meant all that he said. Not an inch would he budge, nor would he sign any paper, and it was only by taking a commissioner down to him that the fund could be recovered.

Whether because it was only a comparatively small sum or whether because he was a worker, the guardians made no claim on it. Accordingly, at his request, it was split, and two accounts were opened on his behalf in the Postoffice Savings bank. But, for all that, he continued to remain in the workhouse.

Meanwhile he was very anxious that his wife should not know he was alive—in fact, he denied that he was married. His life partner, however, called at the agent's office to inquire about the case, though she begged that her husband might not be told of her whereabouts. She was in a fairly good position, earning as she did a living by keeping a ladies' school, and once or twice her reprobate husband had turned up in an intoxicated condition and raised a commotion that had scandalized her pupils. The ill sorted pair were, therefore, not brought into communication.

Never would the pauper legatee leave the workhouse. He remained there till his death, whereupon, having left no will, the money he had scorned to use passed to his wife.—Cassell's Saturday Journal.

Astounded The Editor.

Editor S. A. Brown, of the Bennettsville, S. C. was once immensely surprised. "Through long suffering from Dyspepsia," he writes, "my wife was greatly run down. She had no strength or vigor and suffered great distress from her stomach, but she tried Electric Bitters which helped her at once, and, after using four bottles, she is entirely well, can eat anything. It's a grand tonic, and its gentle laxative qualities are splendid for torpid liver." For indigestion, loss of Appetite, Stomach and Liver troubles it's a positive, guaranteed cure. Only 50 cents a S. J. Hodgkinson's Drug Store.

SATURDAY SEPTEMBER 29, 1900
THE LATE STATE FAIR.

The fair is over and the people have returned to their homes pleased, it is hoped, by the entertainment and pleasure of the week. The fair of 1900 was among the best fairs of the State Agricultural Society. It made us understand what can be done in the way of exhibits when there is any disposition by the people to make them. The products of the State received an advertisement in many departments that will have its effects upon its future. The mineral exhibits were not up to the standard the State is capable of making, but they were creditable to those who made them.

The ones exhibited were chiefly from Washoe and Humboldt counties. Many of the samples were very fine, which directed attention to the mineral deposits of these mineral bearing districts. Farm products were not as plentiful as they might have been had a little more interest and energy been put into efforts to make a display such as the State is capable of making, but the exhibits made were in number and quantity sufficient to show what our soils and climate are capable of doing in the development of these products. All the space in the Pavilion assigned to products of the farm was taken and occupied, but the writer has a knowledge of the fertility of Nevada's soils and the fostering forces to vegetable life in its climate which tends to lead him to expect more of a display than the average farmer is willing to make.

Fine as the exhibits were in quality they can be surpassed in variety and quantity and they will be surpassed at our next fair. Fruits made an appearance not expected because of the late spring frosts. No other country or climate could have made such an exhibit of fruits, more particularly of apples, as was made with like late frost conditions upon them as were present here in the spring when the trees were in blossom. The exhibit of the Nevada Experiment Station was very fine and more excellent than was expected it would be because of the late frost at the station's building at the University campus where much of the earlier products of the season were stored and destroyed.

Other exhibits in their several departments were all that could be desired. It is not the intention at this time to enter upon any detail of these exhibits, they are referred to only as incident to a general review of the fair. The largest attendance on the first day of any fair held in the State was present on Monday, the attraction being a bicycle relay race between the Olympic club of San Francisco and the Reno Wheelmen. The Olympic club being the challenging party, the championship of the coast, held by the Reno's being the chief object of competition by the clubs. The Regatta at the close of a fifty mile race continued to hold the much coveted position and its honors. The Reno clubmen who entered the contest are chiefly farm products which is one of the chief proofs that sustain the superior quality of Nevada's farm products over products grown upon the soils of California.

Nevada's young men like all these are produced in the State are superior and have a superior quality of brawn which comes from the food they eat which is chiefly derived from the products of its soil and the air they breathe on its mountains. The speed contests at the society's grounds were much better than they have been at any fair meeting for a number of years. Hon. T. C. Winter, Nevada's leading horse man in all departments of the business, was present at the fair and had charge of speed contests which is an assurance that there was not anything dishonest or a scrub contest at the speed track of the society.

The general exhibit of stock was not what it should have been but the examples exhibited were of Nevada's best stock, which is sufficient to make known to stockmen that no Texas long horns or any of their blood were upon exhibition. The society, like the State, has taken a new relation to the business world, which was made known by the business management and in the exhibits, also by renewed life in every department connected with the fair of 1900. There were no dissensions among the managers or among exhibitors which is a new condition at Nevada State fair, which above all relations present establishes the fact that the fair was conducted on business principles to the exclusion of all littleness, which usually makes an appearance in small people whose little notions are ever cropping out with a view to secure prominence over brains and good sense. Should future fairs continue to be conducted on lines and upon principles that were present at the late State fair they will become a source of large profit to the State as they should be when under legitimate business management.

WEATHER PROPHECY

The Journal's Copyrighted Guess as to Meteoric Conditions.

(Copyrighted, 1900, by W. T. Foster.)
ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Sept. 29.—Last bulletin gave forecasts of storm wave to cross continent 30 to October 3, cool wave Oct. 3 to 7.

Next disturbance will reach Pacific coast about October 7, cross west of Rockies by close of 8, great central valleys 9 to 11.
Warm wave will cross west of Rockies about October 7th, great central valleys 9, Eastern States 11th. Cool wave will cross west of Rockies about the 10th, great central valleys 12th, Eastern States 14th.

No great importance is attached to this disturbance. The storm will be large but of no great force; temperature will average above and the cool wave will not bring very low temperatures.

Temperature of the week ending October 8 will average above normal and rainfall below.

About date of this bulletin weather will be generally cool with light snows falling in northern states and scattered showers in south.

October promises two great extremes in temperature. One great warm wave will pass meridian 90 about 14th and a great cool wave about the 22. The first half of the month will be dry. Moist rain and snow will fall from 15 to 24. Last week of month dry.

A Hearty Laugh Last Night.

Shortly after midnight yesterday morning a foul murder took place in Wadsworth.

Hugh McCormack, a well known prospector from Olinhouse gulch, was the victim. The affair took place in Carl Walstab's saloon. Mr. McCormack was in the saloon when a stranger of the hobo type entered the place. The two entered into a discussion, which seemed friendly at first, but ended in a heated dispute. The stranger drew a dagger and plunged it into the old man's heart.

Sheriff Molins, Coroner Peers and District Attorney Williams went down to Wadsworth. An inquest was held and the assassin held for trial. There was considerable talk of lynching, but the hanging has not materialized.

What They Deserved.

Not very long since an exceedingly well dressed man about 35 was charged in a north London court with being drunk. He promptly paid his 10 shillings' fine and went away. A fortnight later a stylishly dressed woman was charged with a similar offense. As she gave the same name and address I concluded they were husband and wife. So I called on them, and my visit was repeated several times. They had a very nice home, kept two servants and had four children. I noticed a bonny lad of 8, as I saw him several times. Some months later I got a letter as follows:

Dear Mr. Holmes—You know my Jack, the 8-year-old. I am sorry to say that he has got into bad ways—steals money from us, stops out late and is very disobedient. Can you get him into any training home or institution of any kind, where his evil propensities will be cured? Kindly oblige us in this.

I could not resist the temptation to reply as follows:

Dear Sir—I know of but one cure for Jack's evil propensities, and that is a thorough application of the horse-whip to both parents.

—Contemporary Review.

Conscience the Coward.

Murderers uncaught suffer awful agonies of fear when alone with their consciences, but when apprehended, tried, convicted, sentenced and incarcerated they become callous to fear. Jailers tell me this is the general rule. There is an acquitted murderer in this city, once a leading politician, who has not been able to sleep alone in a dark room these 29 years. A light must be kept burning and an attendant is constantly on guard. A Wall street broker, who has "done" every one of his most faithful friends, dares not go to bed in the dark. He keeps a light burning in his room and one in the hall, leaving the door open. In the small hours of the morning he awakens his family with pitiful cries. The city man who is not afraid of the darkest alleys, who will brave thugs and stable gangs at any hour of the night, is in a panic when alone in a forest.—New York Press.

Pulpit and Pew.

In his "Lighter Moments" the late Bishop Walsham How tells of a lady, a great admirer of a certain preacher, who took Bishop Magee with her to hear him and asked him afterward what he thought of the sermon. "It was very long," the bishop said. "Yes," said the lady, "but there was a saint in the pulpit." "And a martyr in the pew," rejoined the bishop.

Not a Fault Finder.

"You are not one of these men who find fault with the cooking at home?" "No," answered Mr. Meekton; "I don't exactly find fault, but occasionally I do feel called on to apologize for the way things taste when Henrietta gets home from the club. You see, I never could learn to make good coffee."—Washington Star.

An Exact Likeness

The greatest trouble most photographers experience is getting an EXACT LIKENESS. Here is where modern appliances come to the rescue. The RIVERSIDE STUDIO is the most up-to-date on the Pacific Coast; the fixtures are all MODERN and none but EXPERIENCED ARTISTS are employed. You can rest assured that if your photograph work is done at the Riverside Studio it will be finished in an artistic manner.

MEETING OF SMELTER CO.

A Plan for Reorganization Was Considered by the Stockholders.

A meeting of the stockholders and creditors of the Reno Smelting and Milling Company was held yesterday in the office of President Oscar J.
Smith.

Plans for reorganizing the company were discussed, and the sense of the meeting was that the old company be merged into a new one.

This will be strictly a home corporation. It will be capitalized for $500,- 000. A portion of the plan is that no one who paid for stock or became a creditor of the old concern shall suffer.

Of the stock in the new corporation only $25,000 will be disposed of immediately. This will be sufficient to pay all indebtedness incurred by the original concern and provide a working capital. For every dollar paid in for stock in the old company the stockholders will be given one share in the new.

There were defects in the plan of the Reno Smelting and Milling company, which will be remedied in the new corporation.

Everyone present expressed himself as pleased with the turn matters had taken, and one of the stockholders said he would increase his holding of $250 to $1,000, now that the smelter promised to be run on a business basis. Doubtless the $25,000 needed will be subscribed in a few hours.

The plan is to fully recompense Messrs. Hillhouse and Cooley for the time they spent in the service of the old company. It is learned that the holders of liens against the smelter are pleased with the result of yesterday's meeting, as they will be relieved of the expenses attending litigation.

An effort will be made to expedite reincorporation and get the smelter in operation again without delay. Several of the principal creditors have expressed a desire for stock in lieu of money payment on their accounts. The new company is backed by the solid business men of this city and promises to be wisely conducted. It is worthy of the support of all who are interested in the welfare of this city and county.

ciation are making good progress in

A Little Kick.

The Carson fair closes today. It was a success so far as races go, but the crowds from Virginia and Reno might have been larger. The V. & T. people would have carried hosts of people over their line if they had had the enterprise to advertise the fair.

They, to be sure, mailed the JOURNAL their excursion rate notice and the same appeared in print, as a free gift from a wealthy newspaper to a suppliant, famished corporation, but so far as reciprocity goes, the road was n.
g. In the opinion of the localizer of this paper the management of the V.
& T. is not very noticeably awake.

The Twentieth Century.

A meeting of the Twentieth Century Club was held yesterday afternoon. The program was an interesting one. The members are planning to give an entertainment in the near future.

Stock Shipments.

Twenty-two carloads of cattle were handled yesterday at R. W. Parry's corrals. Five were shipped by Blackburn & Allen, seven to Kerr & Co., and ten to the Western Meat Co.

A Tribute to Sheriff McInnis, a Popular and Capable Officer.

W. H. McInnis is a candidate for Sheriff. You have probably heard this before, but it won't hurt to jog your memory. Just paste his name on the lining of your hat, so you don't make any mistake election day.

Mac deserves re-election if any officer ever did. He has been true and faithful to every duty, great and small, that has fallen upon him to perform in his official capacity.

He and his efficient lieutenant, Jailer Hayes, have carefully guarded the prisoners in their charge, treating them in a humane manner and at the least possible expense to the county. In his pursuit and arrest of criminals he has been neither lax nor timid.

One of the principal duties of the Sheriff of this county is the collection of license. Mr. McInnis has allowed no debtor to the county in this respect to escape his notice. Owing to Washoe's growth in wealth and population during his term of office, his duties in this line have been greater than those of any of his predecessors.
The jail has also had a larger complement of guests.

In all his monetary dealings with the County Treasurer in the matter of collections, Mac has never erred a cent in his statements; in fact all his accounts and records show him to be careful and painstaking.

Sheriff McInnis has the confidence of the people. Never a breath of suspicion has rested on his administration, and the first complaint has yet to be made.

Mac is a popular fellow, even if he is an exacting officer. The boys are for him teeth and toenail. Why? Because Mac is for the boys. He is a patron of athletics, and never has Reno won a relay race or a football game but Mac has done his part to win success by way of verbal encouragement or "putting up."

It is two to one not only that Mc-Innis will succeed himself as Sheriff, but that he won't show up on the streets to-day after he reads this "caloric atmosphere." We wouldn't have written it, only the boys demanded it and we were short of copy.

Murder Done
at Wadsworth.

We all laughed hysterically at "That Man" last night. There weren't more than a couple of hundred of us in the opera house; too soon after a popular price week.

"That Man" is a delightful farce comedy, spick, span and new. It was brought to us direct from New York, where the scene is taken.
The cast was a strong one. Walter Walker assumed the character of "That Man," whose specialty is in comforting discarded wives. Miss Mildred St. Pierre had the thoroughly congenial role of the lady with a triple identity, and the balance of this comedy organization was chosen for their respective fitness for the many characters.
